Cher ami,

Je suis désolé de ne pas t'avoir écrit plus tôt. Mes parents ont décidé de déménager à la campagne, et j'ai passé presque tout mon temps libre à aider à emballer et à déballer les cartons. Nous habitons maintenant dans une vieille maison avec un grand jardin, et j'adore déjà y passer du temps.

Amitiés,

No eighth grade, fewer dances change BC life

School life deviated from the routine this year beginning with no eighth graders attending Central. Because of the added room, only one study hall was in the cafeteria.

During lunch students could buy a milkshake, listen to piped in music from an eight track tape player in the office or sneak to lunch in a friend's car.

Although the time was lengthened until 11:30, clubs sponsored fewer after game dances this year because of declining admission sales.

Using updated journalism techniques in a weekly news bulletin and a monthly newsmagazine, the newspaper staff revised their production. The yearbook staff used newer layout design to also update their fall delivery book.

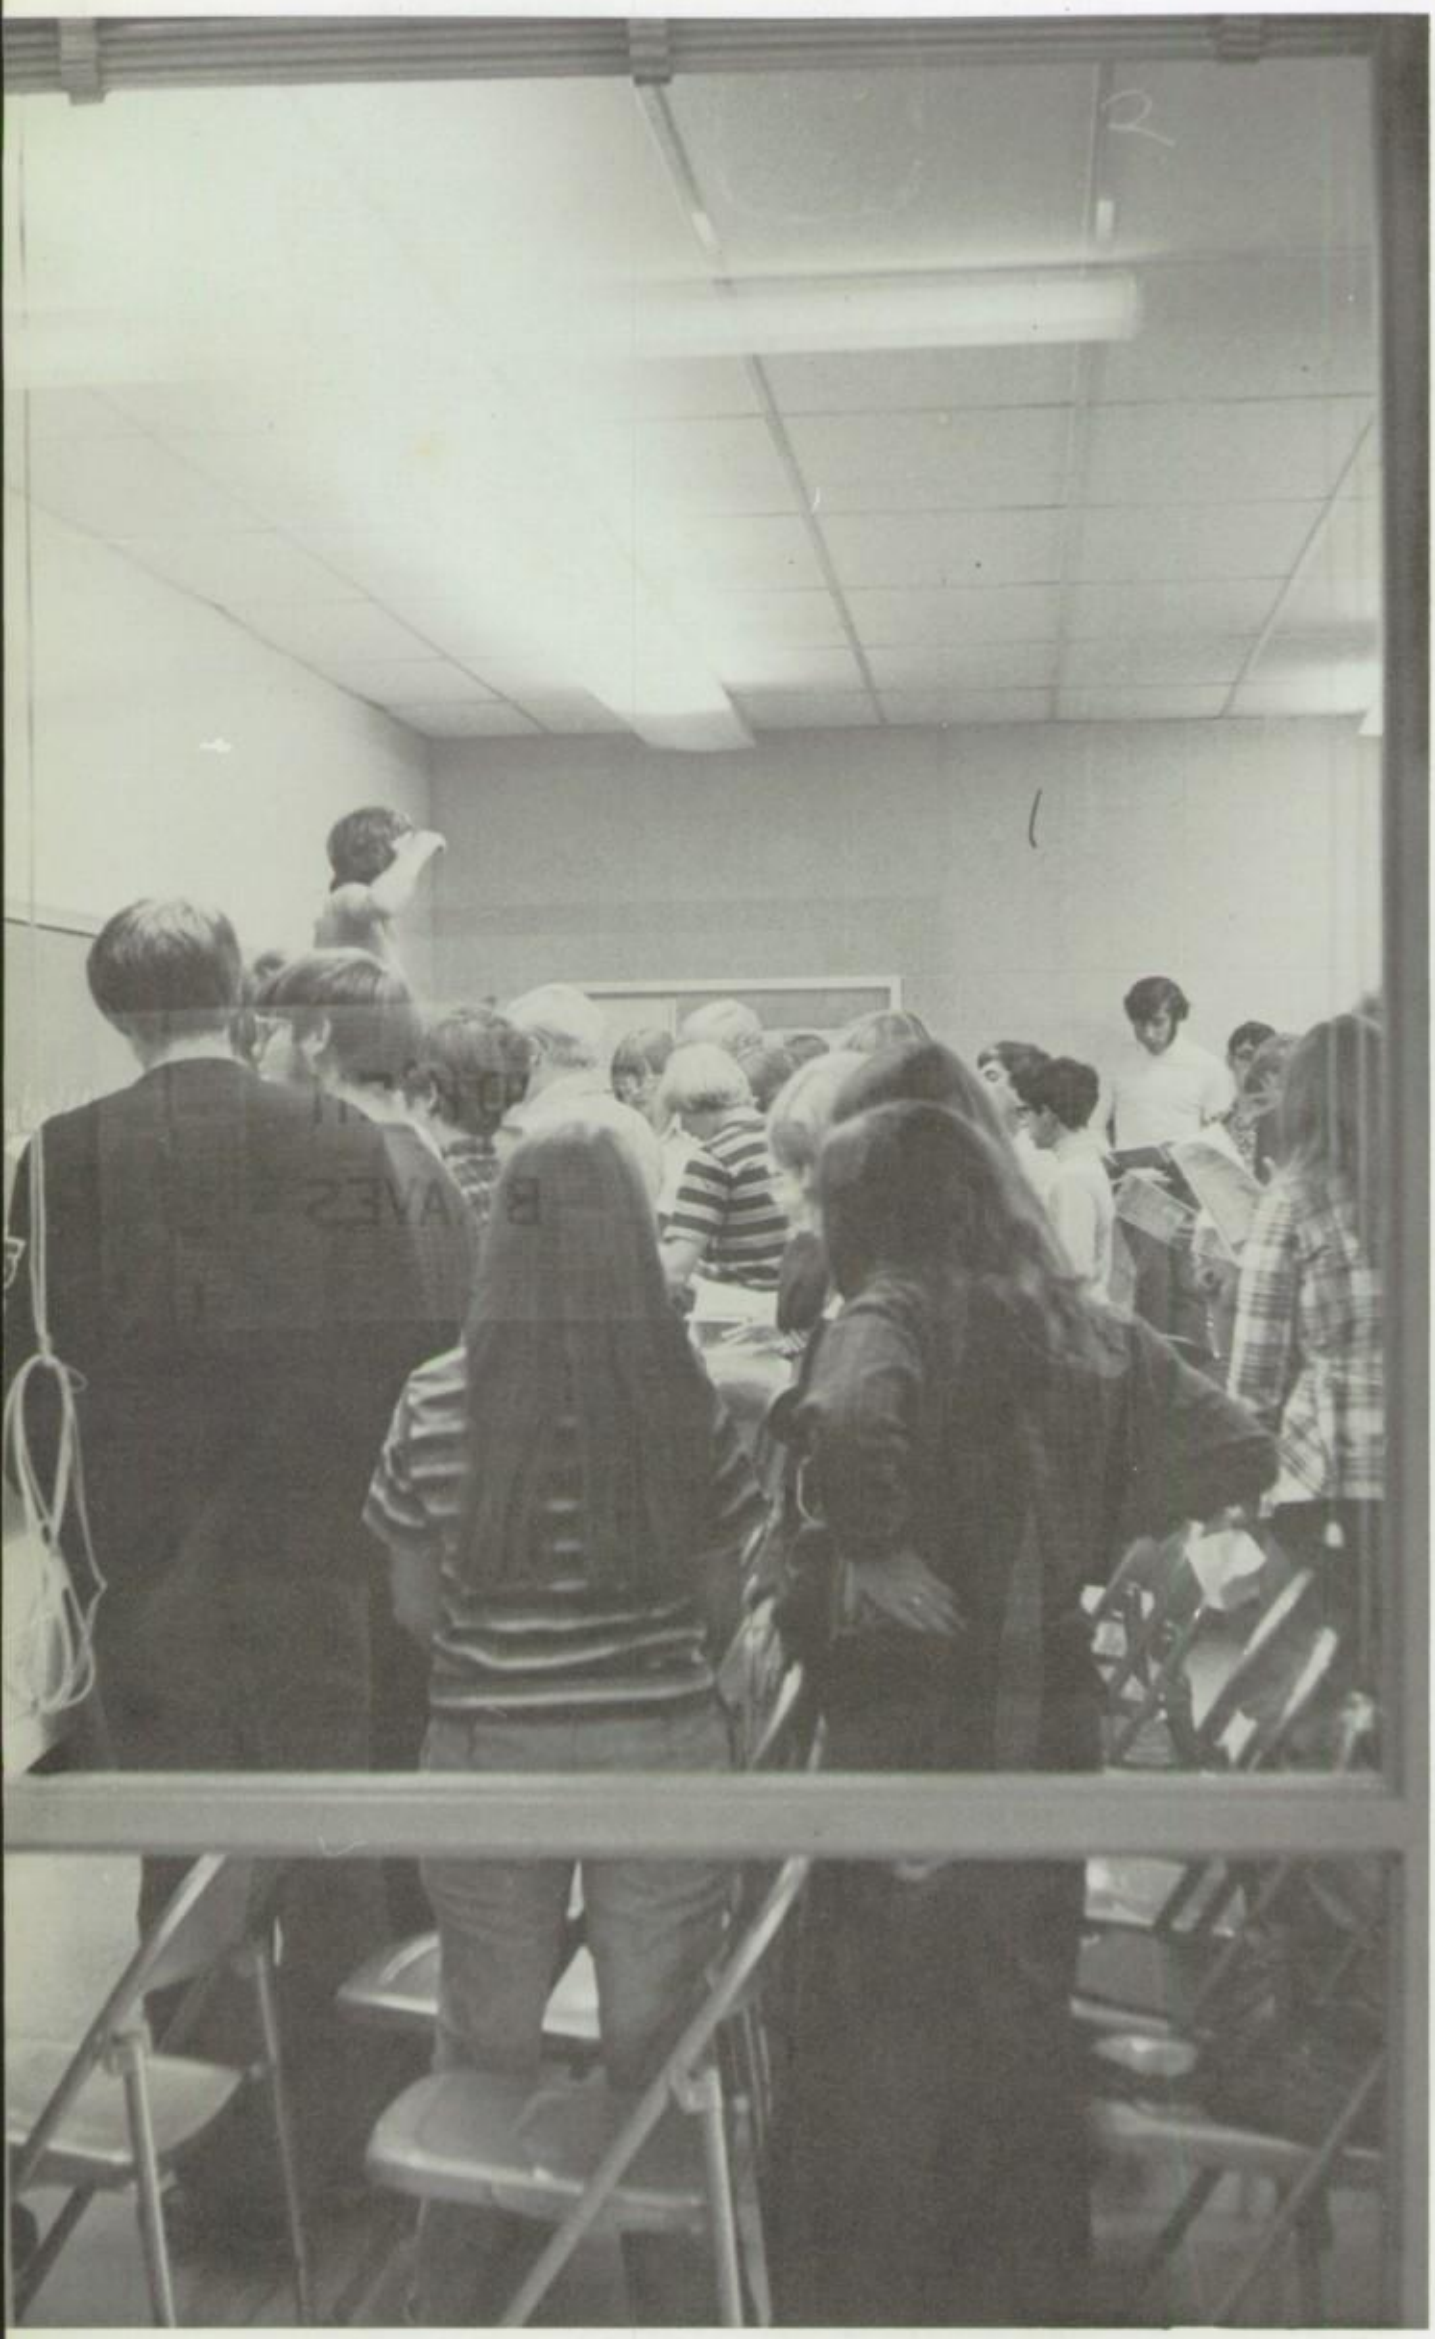
"There were Giants . . . Jim Blevins was one . . ."

. . . "Mr. Blevins" to his students was a rock of fairness and a reference of ethical stability in a confused and changing world . . . Blevins was an educator, not a confusing lecturer. He was dedicated to the proposition that education is a discipline, a field in which the teacher or system must make the knowledge, subject matter, and truth, as he believes it, clear, and just as clearly let the student know what is expected and required. His criticism was just, his commendations sincere, both intended to be helpful . . . His associates and former students scattered across the land . . . will recall his help along the Jericho roads where his encouragement, teaching, recommendation, and yes, discipline may well have ministered to their need and pushed them on in the right direction . . . At times of durress and decision in educational systems, Blevins walked with giant steps. He has been preserving order during a time when chaos threatens many schools. His stride will be difficult to match . . . "In those days there were Giants on the Earth" . . . Jim Blevins was one of them.*

Mr. James T. Blevins, assistant principal and athletic director, was shot to death in the school parking lot on March 22, 1974, as he arrived at school. A 17 year old BCHS student is being held in connection with the incident. LEFT: Monique Wilson chats with Mr. Blevins during her lunch period.

*The tribute was written by Joe E. Robertson and appeared in the BROWNSTOWN BANNER, March 27, 1974.

Convocations, workshops open new opportunities



Practicing and performing for organizational convas, for pep sessions, or class convas for holiday observances, or being recipients of awards at special convocations showed students' talents through performance and recognition.

Viewing entertainment convocations performed by visiting high schools and colleges was a "break" from the normal routine and helped enhance cultural and social enjoyment.

Attending a summer workshop helped students further their education or skill in an activity. Along with the knowledge gained, these gave BC students the opportunity to make acquaintances with students from other schools.

BC experiences are memories

With the morning class bell changed to 8:25, students had more time to chat with friends and walk or stand in the halls before the school day began. For the first time, male students were allowed to wear sandals to school during the warmer months. Lunch lines in the cafeteria were switched from their usual positions, which sometimes brought confusion for the student.

Catching a mini-football thrown after a touchdown, having one's class win the spirit stick after yelling at pep session and spending hours making posters and tags, and facing that most embarrassing moment, were only a few experiences that became memories.

Musicals have Far Eastern, Western decor

Flashy costumes and glittering scenery helped in establishing an oriental atmosphere needed for the '73 musical, The King And I. Alternating lead female roles in the two nightly performances were Debbie Baker and Terry Hurt as the governess, Anna, with Doug Pogue cast as the King of Siam. Directing the annual production were Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Perry.

During the Sioux adoption ritual of Annie Oakley, the audience for the '74 musical was encircled by "Indians." Chosen as the character Frank Butler in Annie Get Your Gun was Roy Nichols with Judy Smallwood playing Annie. New choir director, Mrs. Molly Persinger, was supervisor of the production.

"Magic of Spring" blossoms for '73 prom-goers

The "Magic of Spring" blossomed before '73 prom goers, as the cafeteria and garden bloomed with spring color.

Queen Katie Cartwright reigned over the May 18 festivities created by fellow juniors. She was crowned by junior class vice-president Jim Tulledge, due to president Nancy Terkhorn being a member of the court.

Members of the court were Debbie Darlage, Jeanne Reid, Nancy Terkhorn, Bonnie Pottschmidt, Cheryl England and Cathy Crider. Escorts included Jim Tulledge, Gary Wheeler, Mark Sterling, Mike Wray, Paul Spurgeon, Terry Norman and Rick Stuckwisch.

"Sounds" added to the atmosphere were by "Christopher Robin," a Louisville band.

After-promers experienced the theme "County Fair," provided by junior and senior parents in the Walnut Street gym.

Dancers and listeners "tuned in" to music by the "Fanatiks," a Louisville band. Door prizes were given by local merchants.

First relay queen crowned at invitational

Spectators to the eighth annual Brownstown Central Invitational Relay saw history made April 28, 1973, with the crowning of the first BC relay queen Anne Schneider, and with BC "runners" capturing the school's fifth Invitational Relay win.

Members of the first relay court were Lewann Weidig, senior; Pattie Wolka, junior; and Cathy Terkhorn, freshman. Grant Schneider, John McCrary, seniors; Steve Burcham, junior; Larry Weir, sophomore; and Jeff Grisson, freshman; served as escorts.

For BC, 97 points produced a win over Charlestown—53, Scottsburg—47, Salem—41, Austin—40 and Edinburg—19.

Floats, spirit tags, legs' contest color homecoming pep sessions

Football homecoming fans viewed a first as Queen Debbie Sherrill circled the track in a Corvette after her coronation. The Super Sneaker Award, judged on the best float and most "Scalp 'Em" tags worn, was presented to the seniors at the pep session.

"Copperfield," "Trash" provide dance music

Using characters from the "Love Is . . ." cartoon by Kim in the entrance scene, the mood of past Christmases was instilled at the GAA Christmas dance. The main decorations of twinkling lights and a snowy entrance walk, captured the theme "Love Is . . Christmas Memories." During the dance Santa Claus came and gave small presents to the couples.

At the Hi-Y dance, "Just You & Me," Debbie Sherrill was crowned queen. Members of the court were Nancy Terkhorn, Kathy Reid, and Donna Disque. "Trash" provided music for the annual spring dance.

Overall organization of after prom is renovated

Gambling booths, a sidewalk cafe, a live band, "Crushed Velvet," on stage, and a casino called "The Red Tennis Shoe," aided in giving the after-prom a new look. Planned by the parents, the after-prom was held at the new elementary school until 5 a.m. It provided entertainment, prizes were given away hourly, and an abundant supply of food was served.

The prom entrance scene with a balcony overlooking a garden full of shrubs, roses, and a bridge over a small brook set the theme of "A Time For Us." A mirror ball sent reflections over the ballroom as couples danced to the music of "Granite." Punch was served in the decorated garden where a fountain overflowed into a small cement pool.

Science Club gives sponsorship of coat checks to other clubs

Science Club was less active in '73-'74 than in previous years. Because there was no Science Fair this year, the club did not have to set up the display areas or buy the prizes and plaques which are given for winning projects. Therefore, with no need for such a large treasury, the club gave their sponsorship of the coat check to other organizations on several occasions.

The club met monthly and heard speakers who talked about their careers in nursing, data processing, pharmacology, and other science-related fields. Meeting times were also used to plan the spring field trip.

Student Council is instrumental in purchase of bicycle racks

Although there were goals the Student Council did not achieve last year, their accomplishments for the student body were many. The council suggested to the administration the need for bicycle racks. The playing of music during lunch was also accredited to action by the council. Another accomplishment was the recognition of the senior members of the girls' basketball team at the homecoming game.

The council's responsibilities included sponsoring the Christmas Cheer Program, planning homecoming, and taking care of cheerleader elections.

The council also worked for a change in their constitution to have five instead of four representatives to the council from each class.

The efforts of the council to continue the reading of class wills and prophecies at Senior Walk was a goal they did not reach.

Choirs present "Hallelujah Chorus" at concert

With a new choral instructor, Mrs. Molly Persinger, this year's choirs received new direction. One change was the Christmas concert which showed the development of Christmas music through history, accompanied by a slide presentation. Fifth period and Swing choirs had a special part in the concert. The fifth period group also helped in the musical production by making costumes and scenery.

By placing in the Clarksville vocal contest, seven groups and individuals participated in the state contest.

Pizza party highlights FHA agenda

The FHA girls participated in after-school party and each girl "created" her own pizza with dough spread in a foil "pie pan" and topped with meat, cheeses, and spices. As well as a pizza party, the club held a Christmas caroling party on a cold, rainy night in December.

Any student, freshman and above, who was enrolled in a home-ec course could participate in FHA. Initiation this year required that the girls wear silly outfits, pigtails, and carry baby bottles. Sponsor of the group was Mrs. Susan Harrison.

Pleasure Ridge Park defeats Hi-Q team

The Brownstown National Honor Society sponsored a college bowl and a team of four was chosen to compete on Wave-TV's Hi-Q. Those chosen to attend were Joyce Turmail, Janet Moyer, Mike Wray, and Doug Lucas. Alternates were Jon Robison and Brian Rice. The team was defeated by Pleasure Ridge Park, 170-130.

To be in the Honor Society, one must be a junior or senior and maintain a B + average for 3 consecutive semesters. The club was comprised of 35 members under the supervision of Mr. John Stuckwisch.

At Awards Day, the club presented an Outstanding Freshman Award and a plaque to each senior member.

"Brandy" is favorite among band members

Upon entering a ballgame at BCHS one heard the band playing a variety of selections. Popular opinion was that "Brandy," a rather recent composition, was the year's favorite among the band members.

The band did things besides play at ballgames and pre-game pep sessions. Two of the parades the band participated in were the Christmas and the Fourth of July.

Under the direction of Mr. Keith Skelton the band members prepared numbers for the district contest at Clarksville. Some of the members then got to participate in the state contest at Butler University.

A winter and spring concert were presented by the band.

Chess Club tourney champion, Terry Gambrel, awarded trophy

The chess club, in its second year, was not an active club. Meetings were held once a week, but toward the middle of the second semester attendance dropped to only a few members. However, during March the club revived with the second annual chess tournament. Nineteen entrants competed for the best two out of three series. If any interested student wanted to join the club but didn't know how to play, members instructed him in the rules of chess.

FFA members won several awards this year, both state and local. The chapter was awarded the National Gold Emblem and the State Safety Award.

Outstanding librarian selected; colored slides shown at banquet

New members were initiated into Librarians Club by catching water balloons and running wheelbarrow races. A formal initiation was also held and officers were installed.

The club toured the two-story library at Bloomington South High School and went shopping for their field trip.

At the Spring banquet, Lisa Webber was named the Most Outstanding Senior Librarian, membership pins were given, and Mrs. Marian Vinson showed slides of Japan.

The members took an inventory of the school library at the end of the school year.

Hi-Y boys hear former addict; are clowns in parade

Hi-Y is actually the high school branch of the national YMCA. A former drug addict spoke to Hi-Y members, adding variety to the usual speakers of the year which included two ministers, several law enforcers, and Judge Brown.

Members participated in the Christmas parade dressed as clowns, and threw candy to spectators.

Each new member had a big brother who gave him pins at the initiation ceremony, and were responsible for his transportation to the Hi-Y dance.

Booster Club decorates teamroom

In addition to yelling at ballgames, members of the Booster Club were given a new responsibility this year. Directed by the Booster Council, club members decorated the Braves' team room before each basketball game, thus relieving the cheerleaders of the duty. The council representatives relayed the importance of council meetings to their classes and promoted class spirit. The Booster Club was sponsored by Mr. Krebs.

The Booster Council, without the consent of the Booster Club, approved the financing of a spaghetti dinner hosted by the varsity cheerleaders for the sectional basketball players, student managers, and coaches.

Rising prices hamper profits of GAA dances

Because of the rising expense of bands, GAA could only afford to sponsor three dances. The proceeds from those dances were used to finance the Christmas dance and a spring banquet.

The club met on Monday nights and the members participated in kickball, softball, gymnastics and basketball.

If members wished to get an award, they were required to attend regular meetings and pass certain skill tests. When a member accomplished this, she received a pin, letter, charm, or plaque, according to how many years she had been a member.

Commercial Club views filmstrips, observes bank in Columbus

To be a member of Commercial Club a person must be enrolled in an advanced business class.

Although the Commercial Club was not very active this year, they met regularly and viewed filmstrips about the various jobs of a secretary.

The first year members were initiated into the club. Several of the girls skinned their noses while pushing pennies down the school sidewalk, one of the stunts required of the initiates.

In spring, the club went on a field trip to the Irwin Union Bank in Columbus.

Journalism clubs attend Press Day at Madison

The journalism organizations at BCHS started the school year by attending the Student Press Day at Madison High School. Students could attend classes on the fundamentals of photography, yearbook or newspaper production, or choose a more specialized session.

The TEE PEE TIMES took on a new look this year. Instead of the bi-monthly paper, the staff produced two publications. A weekly TUESDAY included announcements, school news and sports coverage. In addition, BRAVE MONTH was printed that contained fashion articles and editorials.

The yearbook was delivered in August this year instead of May. This enabled the QUIVER staff to include the events of the complete school year. The annual convo was held to kick off the sales week. Students could buy plastic covers for their QUIVER.

Quill and Scroll, an honorary club for journalists, published the ARROW. A first for the ARROW production was including photographs. The club also held a formal banquet for new members.

Spanish club adopts constitution; provides entertainment at banquet

Change was the key word for the Spanish Club. Members voted to change the constitution and club song. The new constitution allowed a student who had taken Spanish only one year to be eligible for membership.

An October inititaion featured a chamber of horrors. The initiates were also slaves to second, third and fourth year members.

At a monthly meeting, the club saw a film of a bullfight. Members also translated commercials and presented them to the club.

Chicken Taoes was served at the annual banquet and members presented entertainment.

FTA tours new elementary school; talks with panel

The FTA toured the new Brownstown Elementary School. Guided by Mr. Sharp, members observed teaching techniques and were acquainted with the facilities of the building.

Members of the club were not required to pay dues and had no money making projects. As a result, no field trip was taken.

At one meeting, a panel of teachers answered the questions members voiced concerning college and the teaching profession. A filmstrip entitled "Choosing your Occupation", was the highlight of another meeting. Following the film, a questionnaire was distributed.

Lettermen park cars; senior members receive jackets

The single source of income for the Lettermen's club was parking cars for twelve dollars a night at home ball games. This money was used to buy blast jackets for senior members.

At monthly meetings, Mr. Johnson, sponsor, lectured the members on having leadership qualities and stressed the fact that the lettermen should be the leaders of the school.

Latin club tours Indianapolis Museum of Art

Early in the year, the Latin Club went on a field trip to the Indianapolis Museum of Art to obtain knowledge of classical art.

Instead of usual after-game dances, the club provided movies featuring Charlie Chaplin, The Road Runner, and the Pink Panther. They also sponsored two coat checks at ball games for money making projects.

At the IJCL convention, Tom Kieffer campaigned for State President but was defeated. Janet Moyer served as State Corresponding Secretary.

The Roman Banquet was held in May. First year members presented a play and second year students gave a skit.

Awards were given to students who gave the most effort to the club and JCL.

Social studies' activities help spark student interest

Special projects, learning games, panels and reports were means for student involvement in social studies.

U.S. history classes held a Constitutional Convention involving debates. After matters were resolved, a constitution was written and passed.

Government students conducted a mock trial, "Four Fingered Freddy." It focused on proper courtroom procedures.

Human "guinea pig" experiments helped pyschology and sociology classes in the study of human behavior.

Economic students kept tabs on pretend stock market investments, studied policies for personal finance and the federal reserve banking system.

Coloring and labeling of maps acquainted geography students with foreign countries. Films and textbooks provided cultural knowledge of these lands.

Besides special activities, two new teachers, Mr. Krebs and Mr. Barentine, might have "sparked" student interest.

Boys exercise, improve skills in advanced P.E.

A boys' advanced physical education class first period was offered for the first time to juniors and seniors. Taught by Mr. Schrink, the special class provided development activities and improvement in coordination and skills, along with regular exercises.

Physical education, which is required of all freshman and sophomores, was taught by Mr. Schrink, Mr. Johnson, and Mrs. Thompson. An advanced girl's class, composed of junior and seniors, was taught fifth period by Mrs. Thompson.

Changing in a crowded locker room preceded the warming up with laps and exercises. Then students indulged in a wide variety of sports. When the period was ending, the scramble for the showers was on, then back to the regular routine.

"Shop" offers practicality

"Drawing done with the aid of rulers, scales, compasses, etc.," defines mechanical drawing. For students in mechanical drawing class it was also the study and application of architectural principles, concepts and techniques of three dimensional drawing. The class is offered alternate years due to insufficient enrollment for yearly courses.

Whether learning shop safety or woodworking techniques, making a special project or acquiring professional skills, shop students tried to "express" themselves "by doing." Working at something practical or preparing for a future trade, the class provided students the opportunity not offered by academic classes.

Second period advanced shop students studied and practiced the basics of offset and letterpress printing. Industrial art classes were taught by Mr. Duffy.

Practical math course offered

A practical math course was offered at BCHS. Taught by Mr. Furr, it was for seniors who had not planned for attending an institute of higher education. The course presented a variety of mathematics to help enable the students to face everyday life. Along with the basic math concepts reviewed, guest speakers also participated in class, discussing future needs of mathematics.

The math department added a digital calculator for use by students. The calculator simplifies many mathematical operations and increases the accuracy and speed of all computations. It is shared by both the math and science departments.

For the college-bound student, math courses were offered to accomodate their future education. These were algebra, geometry, advanced algebra, and senior math. Also offered was general math, a substitute course aimed at students not taking other math courses.

New teacher, alter '73-74

A new sophomore English and literature teacher, Mr. Michael Thompson, and the purchase of "contemporary" textbooks were additions to the English department.

The subject of English was not just the study of verbs, nouns and adverbs, as in the past, but it delved into the mystery of the language.

Literature texts did not always require the usual reading of novels, but works from contemporary writers were chosen for reading also. Drama and short stories were other topics studied. While some struggled with grammar, others advanced into creative usage. The "budding" writers of the publication's class experienced "witness reporting" of a staged argument.

Discussion groups were used for voicing opinions of class members in senior speech.

With the use of new techniques and materials, English teachers tried to help their students to become more interested and to create new learning experiences.

Experience aids musical ability

Practicing and performing for vocal and instrumental contests, the Christmas choir concert, baccalaureate, the musical, the winter and spring band concert and performances at home ball games, BC instrumentalists and choristers received the experience to improve skills and aid them in their performances.

Fifth period choir, the only vocal music class offered at BC, was instructed by Mrs. Molly Persinger. The members of the class and activity period choir performed a selection of songs ranging from the Baroque period to contemparary times at the Christmas choir concert.

Performing selections at home games during half times and at their winter and spring concerts, band members were enabled to show their instrumental ability. With the "practical" experience and practice, the students seemingly bettered their skills.

Art students "try their hand at" creating projects

Sketching, sculpturing, ceramics, linoleum block printing, lettering and painting were creations students "tried their hand at" in art classes, open only to juniors and seniors.

Under the instruction of Mr. Wharton Reynolds, students were helped to develop fundamentals and techniques, but also to express individuality in their art work.

Ecology posters, a required class project in the study of lettering, were made in March. Sketches, drawn in ink, pencil and charcoal, were composed daily throughout most of the year as part of assignments.

Students learned the process for the forming, glazing and firing of ceramics. Color was also studied, which included the history of how early man used color and the color classes. Water colored pin wheels, showing the primary colors, were constructed to aid in color study.

Free form sculptures were created in May as a final class project. Students were allowed to make what sculpture they wanted from any materials.

Science students employ outdoor classrooms

Freshmen learned the basic concepts in science as sophomores took biology a required subject; juniors and seniors had an option to take chemistry and physics.

Central science students had the opportunity this year to use the Environmental Studies Area, located adjacent to the school. Here they conducted outdoor classes and studied the labled plant and other wildlife.

The Business Department offers courses for sophomores through seniors. Sophomores may take business math; juniors, however, may take more advanced courses such as typing and shorthand. The seniors may take either more shorthand, business law, business English, office practice, or bookkeeping.

Driving students learn traffic laws, practice driving

"I wasn't really worried about driving but I was petrified I wouldn't be able to start the car!" This was the reaction of one BCHS student when asked how it felt to drive for the first time.

To enroll in classes students had to be 15 years or older and attending high school. One course given during the school year is taught by Mr. Duffy. Another course in the summer is taught by Mr. Duffy and Mr. Hinkle.

During the course students were taught laws and good driving practices. The students also studied operational procedure of the car, traffic observations, and the cause and prevention of area accidents.

Home ec. students also designed Christmas ornaments from odds and ends, visited a nursing home, and had a style show modeling outfits made in class. Sponsors were Mrs. Doris Burcham and Mrs. Susan Harrison.

Participating in a quiz bowl, giving demonstrations, visiting the state Farm Bureau Co-op and the Farm Machinery Show at Louisville, or working with the Ford engine helped students study and train for agricultural occupations. A new asset to the agriculture department, advised by Mr. Robert Myers and Mr. Lonn Stuckwish, was the out-door studies area with various species of trees and foliage.

The Interdisciplinary Cooperative Education, or ICE, program was open to seniors and was taught by Mr. Robert Myers. Under the system students devote their afternoons to working at local businesses. Students were paid for working as well as receiving two credits.

Approach toward Latin, 4th year class are new

Spanish students who had completed three years of Spanish and wished to learn more about that language had the opportunity to take a fourth year course this year. Besides being a new course, this one was also different, in the fact that the fourth year students had no regular "class" every day but met in the library.

New to the Foreign Language Department, Mr. Kerns philosophied a new concept to teaching Latin, one that said, "You must be able to read Latin, not just learn the words."

During the course of the year, Foreign Language students shared one thing in common—translations and study. They also found that there were many interesting extra-curricular reports and projects to help those with unstable grades.

First BCHS girl's track team sets 13 records for season

The girls' track team completed their 1973 season setting a "record" thirteen top placings. The fact that it was the first season for Central to have "cinderwomen," accounted for the accumulation of records.

Central twelfth in sectional; Durham finishes 1st for Braves

The BC harriers finished midway in the sectional this year placing twelfth out of twenty-four teams. Glenn Durham was the top finisher for the Braves with a time of thirteen minutes and forty-two seconds. This was also the fastest time of the year for the runners. Other finishers, in order, were Mike Wray, Mike Weaver, David McCrary, and Doug Ault.

In the Mid-Southern Conference Meet, Mike Wray was top runner, leading the harriers to a sixth place finish. Mike was also selected as Most Valuable Runner for the season. Seniors receiving jackets were Glenn Durham, Mike Wray and Mike Weaver.

Coach Leonard Krebs, new to the BC squad this year, stated that he felt the squad would miss the three graduating seniors, since they were the three top finishers in the sectional. The coach commented on the season saying, "I feel the high point of our season was that we were able to improve consistantly. We improved right through the season and then came on strong for the conference and sectional."

Practicing on the high school course for an upcoming cross country meet are Central harriers Jim Wayman, soph., Jon Robison, jr., and Doug Ault, jr.

"We started out slowly by losing 9 out of the first 10 games, but came on right before the sectional," stated Mr. Stephen Schrink, asst. coach.

Making a comeback before the sectional meet at Seymour, the '73 Brave "hitters" ended the season with a 7-11 record. In the sectional the Braves defeated Austin, but suffered a loss to Madison.

Members of the team elected Warren Forgey as the Most Valuable Player, who also led the team in hitting with a .286 average. Terry Ault headed the team in pitching with a 3-1 record.

The team placed victories over Seymour, Floyd Central, West Washington, Paoli, Austin and twice over Orleans. The Braves, however, failed to outscore their opponents in games against Crothersville, Silver Creek, Charlestown, Clarksville, Corydon, West Washington, Salem, Austin, Scottsburg, Jennings County and Madison.

The BC golf team "putted" its first season on the Hickory Hills course in 1973, new home of the Brave team. The '73 season didn't seem quite up to "par," with a record of 7 wins and 8 losses. The team finished sixth in the conference and sixteenth in the Bedford sectional.

Mark Sommers, senior, was chosen by fellow team members as the Most Valuable Golfer and as the season's medalist. Even with the loss of '73 graduates, Mark Sommers and John McCrary, the team seems expectant of future success with four returning lettermen, Paul Spurgeon, Brad Lahrman, Vaughn Blevins and Jim Tulledge.

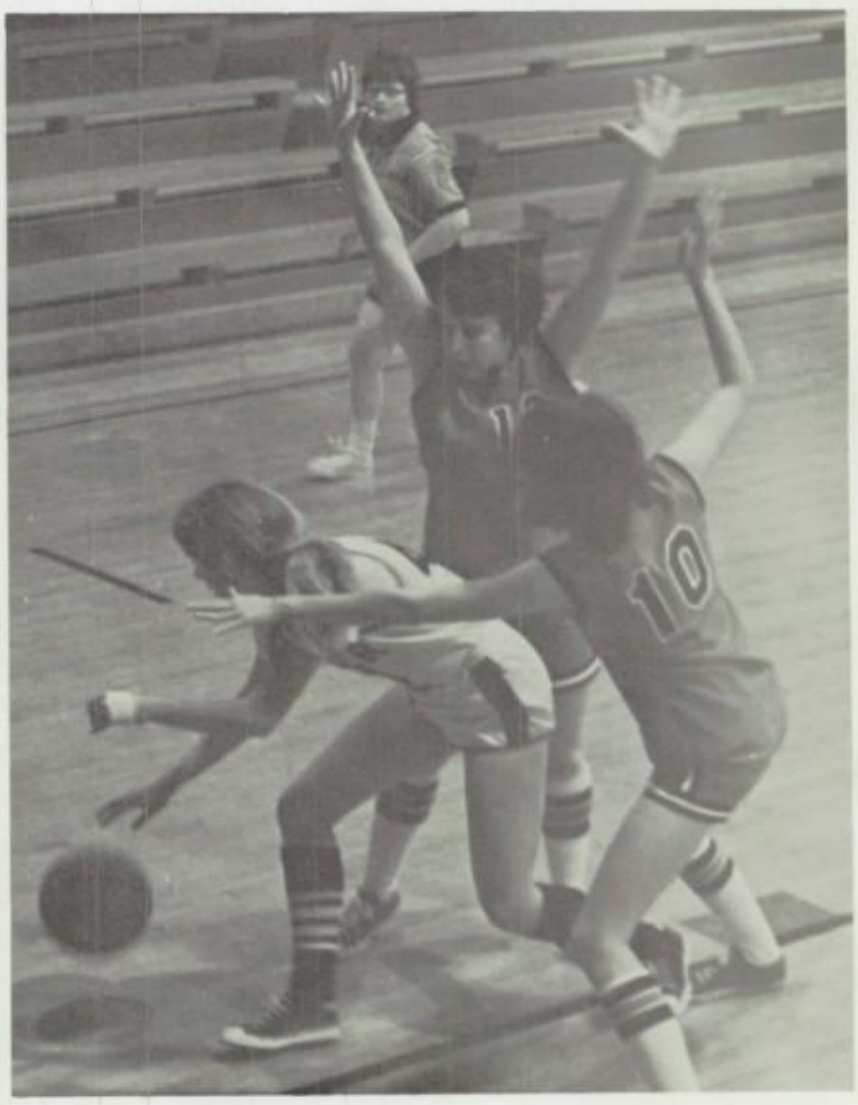
First BC girl's basketball team acquires skills with 4-6 record

BC hosted its first girl's basketball team this year. Under the direction of coach Terri Hughes, a teacher at the elementary school, the girls closed their season with a 3-4 record.

Since it was their first season, the girls spent most of their time learning the fundamentals and techniques of the game. The team held practice every night after school at the new elementary building. Each girl was given a nickname to seemingly bolster their spirit at practice and games.

The Braves won over Orleans 29-11, 41-20, and 58-26, but were outscored by Henryville 34-41, Scottsburg 8-88, and Hauser 26-36 and 32-42.



Reserves have "bright future" says Coach Shrink

"We were younger than most reserve clubs and we were not very big, but these kids are good fundamentally, and the future looks bright for the varsity in years to come," remarked Coach Shrink.

The Reserve squad ended their 1973-74 season with a record of 10 wins and 8 loses. Victories for the Reserve Braves were Mitchell 42-34, Corydon 62-25, Salem 42-38. Seymour captures sectional crown

The Central Braves came close, but not close enough, to defeating county rival Seymour, in the Seymour sectional. The Owls came out on top of the fourth game Friday evening, March 1, by posting a winning score over BC, 65-61.

Brownstown, which held the bye, was unable to score in the final minute before the Owls began their stall with approximately 20 seconds left.

Host Seymour went on to capture the sectional crown with its win over Jennings County, 69-58. Seymour had earlier defeated Scottsburg, 69-63, in the first game Wednesday.

Austin scored 81-48 over Medora in the second game Thursday and Jennings County beat Crothersville, 74-51, in the third game Friday.

Golfers improve; Blevins medalist

"We had a fair season, and improved each match," were the words of Coach Louis Sommers, commenting on Central's '73-74 golf season. Coach Sommers also stated that he was well pleased with the underclassmen. Freshman Mark Norman ended the season in the number two spot, Vaughn Blevins was medalist for the season.

The BC golfers had a 9-11 season record in dual and triangular meets, and as a team shot the lowest that a Brownstown Central team ever shot in the Corydon Invitational.

Gary Nichols, a sophomore, was dubbed "Most Improved Player" by Coach Sommers. Sommers also listed David Clark as playing the most consistently throughout the season.

Trackmen place first in Mid-Southern Conference

The BC varsity track team achieved one of its biggest goals this year by coming out in the number one position at the Conference Meet. The Braves had other major victories at the BCHS Relays, where they placed first, North Harrison Relays and at the I.H.S.A.A. Sectional at Jeffersonville where they came in third. They closed out their season with a 40-4, won-loss record.

New school records were set by Mike Zink in the 100 yard dash at 10.0 and the 220 yard dash at 22.1, Mike Weaver in the high jump at 6'5", David McCrary in the high hurdles at 15.0, Francis Beaty in the discus at 1:32.9. Mike Weaver was elected as the teams Most Valuable Player.

Under the direction of coach Larry Hinkle and assistant Edmund Louden, the Braves seemingly bettered their skills by holding practice every night after school and sometimes on Saturdays, which proved to be helpful towards accomplishing their goals.

"Future looks bright" with summer baseball program!

"Although we only won 5 games we were proud of the good effort and job we did. We were younger than most clubs and we had some very competitive teams we had to face. Our future looks bright and the summer baseball program will be a great advantage to us," stated Coach Schrink.

The '74 BC baseball team ended with a 5-11 record. They defeated Austin 7-4, Paoli 6-3, W. Washington 7-2, Orleans 6-4, and Crothersville 8-6. The Braves lost to Bedford 2-6, Silver Creek 2-3, Seymour 2-8, Corydon 2-7, Floyd Central 1-6, Jennings Co. 2-8, W. Washington 6-12, Clarksville 3-9, Orleans 6-7, Scottsburg 2-7, and Charlestown 0-9.

Spirit tags sold by varsity cheerleaders

"Scalp 'em" and "Krebong 'em" tags were sold by the varsity cheerleaders to the students to be worn at the pep sessions and the games.

The varsity boosters were seniors Bonnie Pottschmidt, Teresa Mulberry, Jeanne Reid, Debbie Darlage, and one junior, Donna Disque who replaced Jeanie Brewer during football season. They assigned teachers to judge the class spirit at pep sessions and organized cheerleader skits for pep sessions. During the summer they attended cheerleading camp at Vincennes University where they won many honors.

Junior Kathy Reid and sophomores, Diane Sherrill, and Pam Holman backed the reserve team to a winning season. Pam Mulberry, Pam Fleetwood, and Pam Reid rallied the freshman Braves.

The cheerleaders, sponsored by Mrs. Terrye Tormoehlen, practiced after school on Tuesday and Thursday nights.

Administration searches for ways to tackle energy crisis

This year's administration was faced with the additional problem of the energy crisis. Since the Brownstown Central School Corporation was only given seventy-five percent of the fuel allotment received last year, some changes had to be made. Classroom temperatures were reduced and weekend activities were rescheduled. The mild winter and everyone's cooperation kept the fuel shortage from becoming serious.

One of the main actions of the Board of Education in the '73-'74 school year was the dedication of the new elementary building in September. The grades were relocated with grades one through five at the elementary, six through eight at the middle school and nine through twelve at the high school.

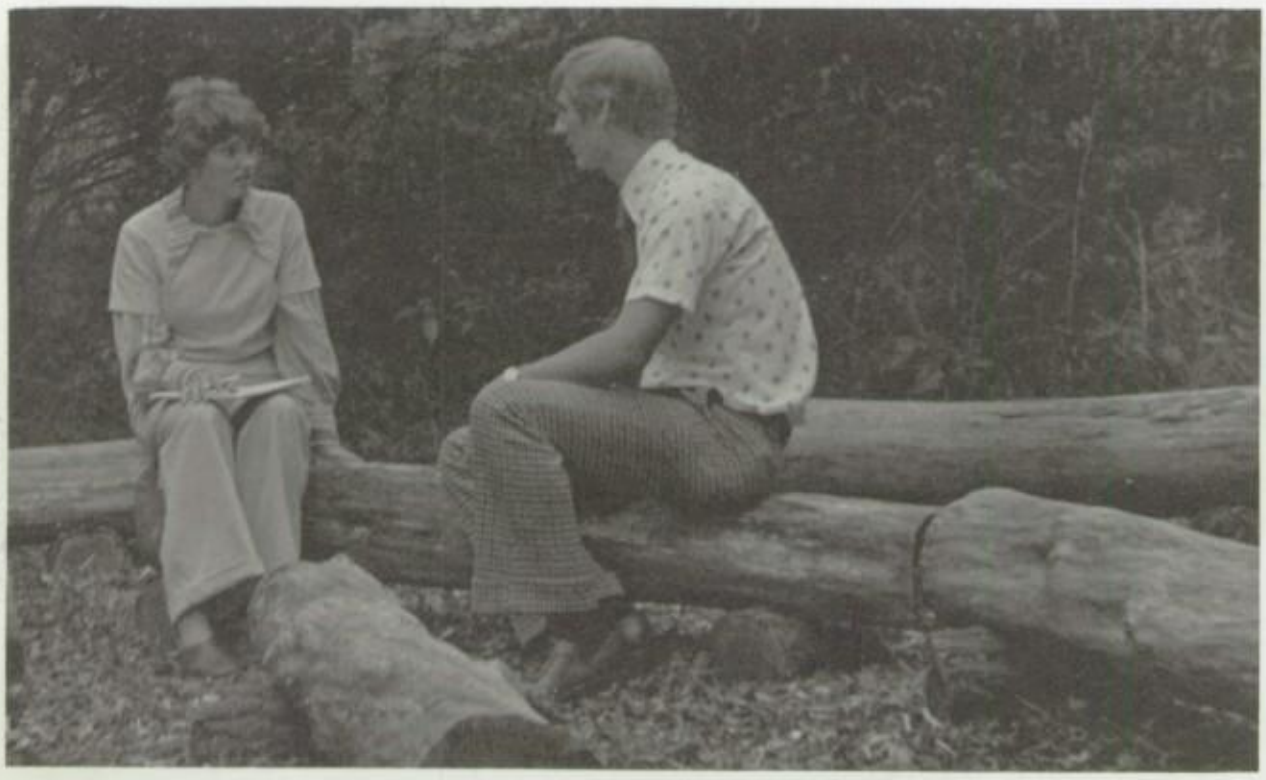
Teachers attend dinner, make final preparations



The first day of school meant more than the usual routine for the BCHS faculty. A dinner was given in the cafeteria, which helped to break the monotony of preparing classrooms and schedules. It also gave the teaching staff time to relate their various summer experiences.

Business meetings were held morning and evenings throughout the year. Committees were organized to improve and coordinate the subjects taught at the elementary, middle, and high school levels.

Students are usually unaware of these and the other more pleasant aspects of teaching. At Central, teachers can enjoy their job and learn to cope with the good and the bad.

This year, the teaching faculty was predominantly male, the ratio of men teachers to women teachers being 21 to 8.

Visitors to BC comment on clean school

Those who visited BCHS, such as the Jennings County exchange students, were usually impressed by its cleanliness and neatness. For a school of its age, Brownstown Central is known to be in very good condition. This is the result of the cleaning staff, who are often unnoticed.

Mrs. Jean Terkhorn, bookkeeper, was in charge of cafeteria funds. Mrs. Peggy Lutes aided the counselors and assisted students in the guidance area.

Retiring was Mr. Joseph Knott. Mr. Knott left this year after many years of fine service to the school. Other members of the staff are bus drivers, cooks, janitors, and the cleaning women who spend much time daily preparing for the students.

No class wills or prophecies for seniors at Central

The class of '74 was the first class at Brownstown Central which didn't have class wills or prophecies. The decision to end this tradition was made by Mr. Driver. Often in past years people were offended by what was said in the class wills. Another reason this tradition was dropped is that it took too much time to censor the wills. Also, most schools no longer have class wills or prophecies.

This year since there wasn't a class trip the proceeds from the Senior play, "Afraid of the Dark," which was held in November, went toward a gift for the school and Commencement exercises.

The Senior class which consisted of 140 students, chose as their motto, "Cherish Yesterday, Live for Today, and Dream for Tomorrow."

Junior play performed at Middle School

The class of '75' brought back the tradition of having a Junior class play. The production they selected was entitled "Introducin' Susan," which was a three act farce. The cast consisted of twelve characters and was directed by Mrs. Burcham.

The Juniors took the scholastic aptitude test.

The Christmas convocation was a take-off of "The Night Before Christmas." Various members of the class acted out humorous parts of the poem. The class used a number of props to create atmosphere for the production. As a change, Doug Lucas, class president, presented the Christmas message.

The class selected a Romeo and Juliet setting for the Junior-Senior prom, as their theme was "A Time For Us." The committees prepared for the dance started in October. For the first time the after prom was held in the new elementary building.

Representing the student council from the class were Annie Schneider, Aletha Bowman, Mary Ann Hollin, and David Clark. The sponsors were Mr. Spray, Mr. Rose, Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Moenich, Mrs. Harrison, Mr. Johnson, and Mr. Schrink.

First sophomores at BCHS to take Armed Service Aptitude Tests

Previously, the Armed Service Aptitude tests were given only to seniors, but by request from the guidance department they were given twice this year to the sophomores. These tests are for career planning, not military purposes, as the name implies.

The sophomores traditionally presented the Thanksgiving convocation. It included a school room skit in which the teacher had "warped" ideas about the real meaning of Thanksgiving. It was based on a popular album by Cheech and Chong. Rick Wilson, a former BCHS student, spoke.

The sophomore class had one hundred and forty members sponsored by Mr. John Stuckwisch, Mr. Krebs, Mr. Louden, Mrs. Chastain, and Mr. Snyder. Their student council representatives were Julie Hackman, Dexter Jones, Mary Lou Koop, and Jeff Brown.

The class was successful in winning the spirit stick six consecutive times during basketball season.

Spirit committee prods "Frosh" to better spirit

Because the class had not won the spirit stick during football season, the freshman class officers and spirit committee, with Mark Norman as chairman, met with the class in December to try to stir up pep. The class rallied to win the stick five times during basketball season.

Representatives to the Student Council were Doug Brown, Mike Chadwell, Debbie Fleetwood, and Randy Delph.

The freshmen presented the Easter convocation in April. Class sponsors were Mrs. Burcham, Mr. Isaacs, Mr. Hinkle, Mrs. Ferguson, and Mr. Persinger.
